NEVIN AND CRABTREE ARE SLATED

Little Doubt That Philipp Has Conferred Honor of High Office Upon Local Leader

W. E. Barber is in conference with Governor Emanuel Philipp at the state capital in Madison today regarding the appointment of Mr. Barber as one of the commissioners to be named for the newly created conservation commission.

While Mr. Barber still was closeted with the governor at 3:30 this afternoon and no word could be secured from the executive office, it is believed certain that the appointment was conferred and accepted today and that its official announcement will follow immediately.

Mr. Barber was called to Madison by a telegram from the governor summoning him to appear at the executive chamber today. He left this morning arriving in Madison at noon. He met the governor in the executive chamber shortly after two o'clock.

James Nevin, for years state fish commissioner, whose present office is absorbed in the new commission, and L. T. Crabtree, of Crandon, are said to be slated as the other two members of the board.

Mr. Barber's position is somewhat similar to that of Nevin, as Mr. Barber was slated for the office of state game warden, and the same warden department like the fish commission, is absorbed by the conservation commission recently created.

Takes Office August 1

The conservation commission is created to come into existence August 1, and if Mr. Barber is appointed and accepts, he will assume his official duties on that day. E. M. Griffith, state forester, whose office is abolished under the new law, has announced that he will engage in fruit culture in northern Wisconsin.

Must Live in Madison

Under the terms of the statute Mr. Barber, if he becomes a member of the commission, will have to take up his residence in Madison. It is at that event the local business of the new commissioner will be turned over to Newell Barber, his son.

Salary $3,500

The conservation commission, according to the law which created it, will be composed of three men, appointed by the governor with the approval of the senate. The salary attached to the positions is $3,500 a year, with all expenses incident to the work of the commission paid.

The commissioners are required to devote all of their time to the duties of the office, and to live in Madison.

The law provides that one shall be a fish and game expert, another an expert on forestry, and the third a practical business man. Not more than two of the commissioners shall belong to the same political party.

Has Wide Duties

The commission supplants the state fish and game warden's department, the board of forestry, the conservation commission as heretofore constituted, the commission of fisheries and the state park board. The duties of all these departments are transferred to the new board.

An annual appropriation of $200,000 is provided in the bill creating the commission.

DEPORTED BY IMMIGRATION

ROME, July 21.—That Porter Charlton's hearing on the charge of murdering his wife, now expected early in the fall term of court, is likely to be largely a matter of reading depositions, became evident today with the departure for the front of three more Carboneers who were witnesses at the preliminary hearing. This makes the number of officials directly connected with the Charlton case who have gone to the front more than half the whole number involved. Charlton will face almost an entirely new set of court officials.

ZAPATA RESUMES CAPITAL CONTROL CITY IS ISOLATED

Situation Takes Serious Turn as Zapatistas Reoccupy the Town

CARRANZA DENIES REVERSE

First Chieftain Says He Still Holds Capital Despite Withdrawing Troops to Meet Villa

WASHINGTON, July 21.—With Mexico City cut off from communication and again in the Zapatistas' hands an increasingly serious turn was given to the Mexican situation today. State department officials said, however, that few Americans remained in the isolated city.

News was awaited anxiously of the expected Carranza-Villista battle south of Pachuca. On it, it was said, Mexico's whole future might depend. Villa officials and police were deserting Naco and leaving it without protection July 19, according to de-

GALVESTON, Texas, July 21

—In direct contradiction of state department advice, Carranza Consul Burns today denied that Zapatistas have retaken Mexico City. He quoted a Vera Cruz cablegram saying that General Coss is pursuing the Zapatistas into Morelos.

The message also claimed that General Diguez drove the Villista forces at Pachuca southward and they are now caught by the forces of Diguez and Gonzales.

laid state department advice. Considerable looting was reported.

Following the evacuation Sunday of all except 6,000 of the forces of General Gonzales, the Carranza commander, the Zapatistas reoccupied the capital, according to dispatches which reached the state department late Tuesday.

Zapata officials are said to have resumed full control of the city following their evacuation ten days ago when the Zapatista forces were driven out by Gonzales.

The latter was forced to take the majority of his troops northward to meet the advance of Villa, who with his army is marching on the capital and is only about forty miles away. What has been the fate of the 6,000 troops he left in the capital is not known here yet.

No word has been received of the whereabouts of General Gonzales since he quit the capital.

Brigadier General Devol, general manager of the American Red Cross, returned from the Texas border yesterday with the announcement that attempts to relieve famine and suffering among non-combatants in Mexico were hopeless under present conditions.

CROWD APPROVES "CHOOSE YOUR OWN" PARK BAND CONCERT

The "choose your own music" plan of Prof. John Andre, director of the Andre-Kreutz band, proved a success when tried out at the open-air concert at Riverside park last night. One of the largest crowds of the season surrounded the band stand, the evening being an ideal one for musicians and audience. Andre's program was especially delightful. Many persons called for special popular music between the numbers on the program.

Wife Asks Divorce Alleging Jag Has Lasted 19 Years

This Has Spoiled His Disposition Mrs. Peter Haas Tells Court and Prays for Her Freedom

That her husband, Peter Haas, has been drunk continuously for nineteen years, and that through the practice his disposition has been thoroughly soured, is the charge of Mrs. Josephine Haas, 624 South Sixth street, who today started suit for divorce, through her attorneys, in circuit court.

According to the formal complaint filed with the clerk, the couple were married in La Crosse in 1895. Two children were born.

Mrs. Haas contends that her husband was so "unsettled" in his nature that he would humiliate her before her relatives, friends and neighbors. She also claims that her husband threatened to do her great bodily harm at times, and that for several years he has failed to support her.

GORITZ ABOUT TO FALL TO ITALIANS REPORT IN ROME

Most Important Stronghold of the Isonzo Predicted Ready to Give In to Besiegers

ROME, July 21.—Reports of decisive victories for the Italians both north and south of Goritz, led the Rome newspapers today to predict the early capitulation of the fortress city, known as the "Przemysl of the Isonzo."

Giornale d'Italia declared that the Italians are now winning the most decisive victories of the war all along the Isonzo, occupying strategic positions and inflicting heavy losses on the enemy.

Frontier advice quote refugees arriving from Goritz as declaring that the city is about to be evacuated. The food supply is said to be running short, the garrison subsisting entirely upon vegetables. As a safeguard against Italian raids, the city is in complete darkness at night, the authorities promising to shoot any civilian who opens his windows.

The railway bridge over the Isonzo between Cervignano and Monfalcone, destroyed by the Austrians in their retreat across the river, has been rebuilt. The first trains passed over yesterday.

STRIKE DELEGATES RATIFY SETTLEMENT

Men to Return to Work at Once Under Arrangement the Work of Lloyd George

CARDIFF, July 21.—Delegates representing the 200,000 striking Welsh coal miners at noon today ratified the settlement made yesterday by the miners' executive council. It was announced that the men will return to work at once.

Minister of Munitions Lloyd George, who was in the hall when the vote of the delegates was taken, was escorted to the platform amid cheers from the miners. In a short speech he congratulated both the miners and the mine owners for reaching a speedy settlement and recognizing that the country's interests were above their own.

"When I was first asked to come here I was horrified at the thought of taking part in a struggle between my best friends," said Lloyd George. "But now my trip becomes a source of joy. I am returning to London, having shaken hands with my fellow workmen and the gentlemen on the other side of the question."

"England faces a situation so serious as to call for the united concentration and action of every man, woman and child in the nation," Lloyd George declared in an address before the conference of South Wales miners here this afternoon.

The minister of munitions referred to the fact that the bulk of France's coal fields are in the hands of the Germans. He urged the miners on that account to make up for time lost during the strike by extraordinary efforts.

"Show France that you are prepared to assist in the struggle for world freedom by filling the bunkers of her navy and England's navy," he said.

MORE PARLEYS OF NO USE LANSING TELLS GERMANY

Note Divested of Any Tone of Belligerency Made Ready by Lansing Today

REPLY TO BE O. K'D FRIDAY

Report Is Current That the Reply to Austria Protest Is in Process of Preparation

BY CHARLES P. STEWART (United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, July 21.—That "this government cannot see, in the present situation, how any useful end can be attained by further parleys," is a sentence which conveys a note of finality in a reply to Germany which, friendly but firm, carries no tone of belligerency. The note was drafted in final form by Secretary of State Lansing today.

Denying himself to all except most urgent visitors, the cabinet premier put on the finishing touches to the note.

From a source close to the president it was learned that the administration will not recede from its policy of insistence on American rights on the high seas.

Reports today were that the note would be delivered to the Berlin foreign office Monday. It will probably be given President Wilson's and his cabinet's final "O. K." Friday and started on the wires to Ambassador Gerard Saturday. It was deemed unlikely it would contain any reference to the Orduna because of inability to complete the treasury investigation in time.

Reports were also current that work has already begun on a reply to Austria's protest against munitions shipments to the allies. The two notes, however, will not go forward simultaneously.

It developed today that at Tuesday's cabinet conference there was considerable debate concerning incorporation in the reply to Germany warning that repetition of the Lusitania affair would be considered an "unfriendly act." It was understood the wording of this clause was so modified as merely to point out that another such incident would be viewed with grave concern, as threatening hitherto peaceful relations between the two countries.

It was learned also that the communication maintains with unmistakable firmness, America's determination to insist on respect of its citizens' rights.

Germany's proposal that neutral passenger vessels, German ships, or four enemy ships be placed under the American flag for transporting American passengers, the note was said to have declared impossible without a special act of congress, now in adjournment.

Instead of refusing point blank to prolong diplomatic negotiations on Germany's undersea warfare, the note was said to have been modified to the extent of stating that this government cannot see, in the present situation how any useful end can be attained by further parleys.

Fourth of Noted River Family Here As Packet's Chief

Youngest of all the captains on the river, Captain John Streckfus piloted the packet St. Paul into the harbor at La Crosse at 3 o'clock this morning. "Captain John" is the fourth of his family, famous in annals of the river, to win his master's license. He is 22 years old, and has held his captain's ticket for two years. Last week he took charge of his first important command, when his father, head of the Streckfus line of steamers, gave him the St. Paul. Until he took the captain's cabin on the St. Paul, "Captain John" had been working under the tutelage of "old heads" on the lower river. The St. Paul left for Winona at 4 o'clock this morning.

JITNEY REGULATION BILL PASSED WITH A LIVELY DEBATE

Assemblyman Crosby Charges Milwaukee Councilman Who Opposed Bill Asked Him to Support It

DISREGARD LABOR OBJECTION

Stemper Bill Is Sent to the Governor with Provisions Affecting Whole State Which He Opposes

MADISON, Wis., July 21.—The assembly this morning placed the jitney business regulation bill on final passage by a vote of 51 to 20, after the measure had been attacked and defended for more than two hours. The bill is now up to the governor.

Assemblyman Crosby startled the assembly by announcing that Peter F. Leuch, representing the common council of the city of Milwaukee had asked him to support the bill, after Leuch had appeared before the committee opposing it.

Blame Street Car Interests Assemblyman Whitcomb, Oconto county, attacked the bill, charging that the only people in the state advocating the passage of the bill were the street car interests and that thousands of people had petitioned the assembly not to pass it.

Assemblymen Hambrecht and Crosby led the fight for the street railway people, holding that the bill must be passed to protect the public. A telegram from the State Federation of Labor, in convention at Superior, was presented just before the bill came to a vote.

The assembly today passed the Staudenbayer substitute for the central board of education bill without a word of debate by the vote of 62 to 5. The measure is now up to the governor.

The skim milk cheese bill, allowing the manufacture of that product, was killed by a vote of 39 to 29.

The senate today refused to reconsider the vote by which the Hanson bill repealing the corrupt practices act was killed. The vote was 16 to 15.

The upper house reconsidered the Stemper bill, rejected the Bray amendment, which would have taken from Chief Jansen of Milwaukee the power to say to whom licenses should be granted and then sent the measure to the assembly with the clause which provides one saloon to every 500 population. The bill still affects the whole state and may be vetoed for that reason.

The Hanson bill creating a department of architecture and engineering under the supervision of the railroad commission to combine these departments in all commissions, was passed, after several amendments were tacked on by a vote of 18 to 9.

The Ackley resolution providing that all recommendations of the finance committee be submitted to the governor before going to the legislature was killed by an overwhelming vote.

Labor Opposes

SUPERIOR, Wis., July 21.—Declaring that jitney busses have done more for regulation of street car corporations than the Wisconsin railroad and warehouse commission within a year, the state federation of labor in session here today passed a resolution favoring jitneys and asking the state legislature to kill the then pending jitney bus bill. The resolution was telegraphed to Madison. The assembly passed the bill today, despite the labor resolution.

TELEPHONE RATE HEARING

Attorney John E. McConnell is in Bangor today representing a number of subscribers of the Bangor independent telephone company, who are objecting before a representative of the state railroad commission to a raise in rates scheduled by the company.

FALL PREDICTED IN FORTNIGHT AS TROOPS NEAR CITY

Teuton Army Takes Up Position Fifteen Miles from the Polish Capital

KAISER WITH VON HINDENBURG

Kaiserin to Be at Posen to Enter City When Von Hindenburg Completes His Work

BERLIN, via The Hague, July 21.—German shells are falling on the outer defenses of Warsaw and Teuton armies are within fifteen miles of the city. Dispatches from the front today predicted the fall of the Polish capital within a fortnight. The Russians are expected to evacuate when the rapidly advancing German armies break through the outer chain of defensive works encircling the city at a distance of seventeen miles.

The kaiser has arrived at the headquarters of General von Hindenburg, via Wireless to Sayville, July 21.—Political circles here today took the view that the success of the German drive on Warsaw not only may mean a separate peace with Russia, but will remove the possibility of any of the Balkan states entering the war on the side of the allies.

Advices received here say that the peace sentiment in Russia is growing rapidly. France, too, is said to be utterly unable to undergo a second winter campaign.

The Vossische Zeitung estimated today that since the beginning of the new drive on Warsaw, the Germans have captured 175 officers and 66,790 men, remarking that "this is a nice start."

denburg. The kaiserin will leave for Posen Friday and it is understood here that she plans to enter the Polish capital with the emperor when von Hindenburg's triumphal sweep carries the Germans into Warsaw.

Berlin is wild with excitement over the succession of victories that is sweeping the Russians from Poland. Not since the drive on Paris last fall have the bulletin boards been surrounded by such eager crowds. The popular belief here is that Germany is striking a tremendous blow that may bring a speedy ending of the war.

Both north and south of Warsaw, the jaws of the great German fighting machines are slowly crushing in upon the Polish capital. Pressing southward near Ostrolenka, von Hindenburg's left wing was within two miles of an important railway leading to Warsaw when the last dispatches were filed from the front.

General von Gallwitz is closing in upon the fortress of Pultusk, thirty miles north of Warsaw and the last Russian stronghold barring the sweep southward to the Bug. News of the fall of Pultusk is hourly expected here.

Twenty miles northwest of the capital German gunners have opened the bombardment of Novo Georgiewsk, the key to the outer defenses of the city while German infantry are attacking furiously in the angle between the Vistula and Vkrta rivers.

South of the Vistula a desperate battle is raging on the railway between Blonie and Jozefow, where the German advance guard is less than fifteen miles from the heart of Warsaw. The Russians are stubbornly resisting the German advance from behind the most intricate system of wire entanglements and trenches yet faced by the Germans in their movement against the capital.

Along the front south and southeast of Warsaw the advance on Lublin and Grojec continues satisfactorily, according to meager dispatches from the front today.

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

TICKET NUMBER 13,482

BY VANE MERRIMAN

(Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Rosa Hornitz moved heavily down the narrow aisle between the dusty glass cases of the pawnshop and peered up into the storm-swept streets.

"We got to light the lamps about now, papa," she said over her shoulder.

The little man huddled over a greasy ledger at a desk near the window looked up with hawk eyes.

"You shouldn't be cutting off all what light there is, Rosa," he reproved his wife. "When I make a footing of this here yesterday's page, then, maybe, we shall light lamps."

Rosa moved her bulky form so that it no longer obscured the window. From the basement doorway she could look up and see many feet passing along the sidewalk, the feet of men, women and little children, and if it had been light enough in the basement Papa Hornitz might have seen his wife's face wet with tears.

Suddenly a pair of large, masculine feet, shod in well-worn goloshes, hesitated at the top of the flight of stone steps and then passed on.

Rosa turned toward her husband. "Copsin Lensky just went by; I could tell his goloshes."

"The feet of a meddler," snarled Jacob Hornitz. "He dare not show his face to me."

"Papa, papa," soothed Rosa, laying her hand on her husband's trembling arm.

"Did he not steal my boy—my Joey?"

"Ah, papa!" wailed Rosa. "It was not Lensky who stole our son. It was his niece, that good for nothing Ray Nemuss, with her fancy ways."

"It was Lensky who told Joey if he broke his engagement to Ray her heart would break. And even though our hearts break from his disobedience our son marries her, and we never see him." Jacob's voice cracked drearily.

"You told him never to show face here again. And her; we hated her for her silly ways and because we were jealous. Now they have moved to Chicago—so far away," reminded Rosa.

The door opened suddenly to admit a customer. Jacob retired to light a lamp over a distant counter and prepared to haggle over a gold watch.

Mrs. Hornitz stood before the door watching the feet on the sidewalk. Suddenly a bulky object blotted out the view; there was a commotion on the stone steps and something bumped against the door.

Out of the storm and wet there was propelled into the shop a baby carriage pushed by a shawl-shrouded woman.

"For what—" Rosa was angrily beginning when the woman interrupted.

"Please—please to let me have a dollar on it. It's a fine carriage, almost new and—"

"Wait," Rosa interrupted in her turn and lighted a bracket lamp. She examined the carriage closely, poked its empty depths and then nodded assent. While she fumbled in the cash drawer the woman pushed the carriage into a dusky corner out of the way of a passing customer.

The transaction concluded, the woman clutched the dollar bill and the pawn ticket and vanished into the night.

Jacob was lighting the remaining lamps that shone like dim yellow oases in the desert gloom of the shop.

"Times is hard, papa," observed Rosa.

"Times is always hard for some folks," retorted Jacob as he returned to his desk.

"Times is very bad when a lady pawns her baby carriage. Look, papa, a fine, handsome carriage, and only a dollar asked."

Jacob glanced toward the corner and nodded. Rosa usually made a good bargain. He sighed sharply.

Rosa Hornitz knew that he was thinking of their son Joey, gone almost a year. They had not seen Joey since his marriage. Now he was in Chicago, where Cousin Lensky had relatives, but he had never written. Perhaps Jacob's denunciations still rang in his ears.

At 11 o'clock Rosa, nodding over knitting, lifted her head sharply.

Jacob locking up his books, stared at her curiously.

"What is it?" he asked.

"I thought you made a cry, papa," she said meekly.

"You would always hear things, Rosa," he reproved.

A queer little sound came from the darkest corner of the shop, a feeble, half-strangled cry.

Rosa and Jacob rushed from their place and met in the middle of the shop.

Their eyes questioned each other. Jacob spoke first. Perspiration beaded his forehead; he essayed a careless laugh. "I am like a child—a crazy one," he confessed. "I thought 'twas little Joey crying! And him—God knows where!"

"Ah, papa!" wailed Rosa. "I heard it, too. It is a bad sign and—" She stopped and listened with a tense look on her round face.

The cry again—louder—a distinct wail.

"A—baby!" Jacob stamped his foot angrily. "Rosa, fool that you are! There is a baby in the carriage."

"Ah, no! The lady had no baby. The carriage it was empty—I felt it in it," protested Rosa, wadding toward the corner. Jacob carried a lamp and flashed it toward the carriage.

"The carriage was empty," repeated Rosa, bending over it. "Jacob, it is a baby—poor, forgotten one!" Her arms plunged into the carriage and brought from under the hood a bundle wrapped in an old shawl. The bundle wriggled and wailed lustily.

"You will take it to the police," commanded Jacob sourly. What for should any one wish us bad luck like this?"

The baby suddenly, stopped crying and, cradled in Rosa's hungry, motherly arms, stared up at her with round, black eyes.

"He should maybe two months old," remarked Rosa. "Such a beautiful boy—see, Jacob, he smiles at you!"

"I see nothing but bad luck," shrugged Jacob peevishly. "Where is my umbrella and my goloshes, Rosa?"

"What for, papa?"

"In the morning, Jacob—husband! Let me keep him tonight—I will take him tomorrow myself—poor little one—that a mother should pawn her babe for a dollar," she crooned softly.

Jacob stamped back to his desk and looked up his records.

"Ticket 13,482," he mumbled.

"Did you know the woman, Rosa?"

"No. She looked like that Yetta Vogel what keeps boarders down by Hester street." Rosa threw this information over her fat shoulder. "I go to give baby some milk, papa." The door into the living room slammed.

Jacob sat and stared at the closed door. He could hear Rosa's tender voice as she moved to and fro and again the baby's cry ending in a gurgle of satisfaction.

"But for the heavy years—it could be little Joey again," he sighed. "He was a good son—it was his only disobedience." He bowed his head upon his greasy ledger.

He did not hear Rosa when she came into the shop and dragged Joey's cradle from a dusty corner, nor the heavy vibration of her tireless feet as she waited upon the wail. He was thinking of Joey in all his delightful phases from infancy to upright young manhood.

A week later Jacob Hornitz faced a shawl-wrapped woman. She pushed some money and a pawn ticket across the counter.

"I came for it," she said briefly.

Jacob studied the ticket and nodded. He went to the corner and pulled out the baby carriage. "Here it is," he said.

The woman hesitated. She was old and wrinkled and her hair was grizzled. "I want the baby, too," she said sharply.

"The ticket calls for baby carriage—no more," said Jacob sternly.

"I want the baby, I hear him crying now," she started toward the back of the shop, but Jacob and

A week later Jacob Hornitz faced a shawl-wrapped woman. She pushed some money and a pawn ticket across the counter.

"I came for it," she said briefly.

Jacob studied the ticket and nodded. He went to the corner and pulled out the baby carriage. "Here it is," he said.

The woman hesitated. She was old and wrinkled and her hair was grizzled. "I want the baby, too," she said sharply.

"The ticket calls for baby carriage—no more," said Jacob sternly.

"I want the baby, I hear him crying now," she started toward the back of the shop, but Jacob and

The baby suddenly, stopped crying and, cradled in Rosa's hungry, motherly arms, stared up at her with round, black eyes.

"He should maybe two months old," remarked Rosa. "Such a beautiful boy—see, Jacob, he smiles at you!"

"I see nothing but bad luck," shrugged Jacob peevishly. "Where is my umbrella and my goloshes, Rosa?"

"What for, papa?"

"In the morning, Jacob—husband! Let me keep him tonight—I will take him tomorrow myself—poor little one—that a mother should pawn her babe for a dollar," she crooned softly.

Jacob stamped back to his desk and looked up his records.

"Ticket 13,482," he mumbled.

"Did you know the woman, Rosa?"

"No. She looked like that Yetta Vogel what keeps boarders down by Hester street." Rosa threw this information over her fat shoulder. "I go to give baby some milk, papa." The door into the living room slammed.

Jacob sat and stared at the closed door. He could hear Rosa's tender voice as she moved to and fro and again the baby's cry ending in a gurgle of satisfaction.

"But for the heavy years—it could be little Joey again," he sighed. "He was a good son—it was his only disobedience." He bowed his head upon his greasy ledger.

He did not hear Rosa when she came into the shop and dragged Joey's cradle from a dusty corner, nor the heavy vibration of her tireless feet as she waited upon the wail. He was thinking of Joey in all his delightful phases from infancy to upright young manhood.

ACADEMIC FREEDOM

In view of the recent debate regarding the now defunct central board of education bill, the advocates of which scoffed at the notion that there could ever, ever be such a thing as interference with academic freedom, some interest may attach to the following paragraphs from the Seattle star:

An undecurrent of dissatisfaction over the forced retirement of Dr. Joseph K. Hart and other faculty members of the University of Washington is likely to develop into a definite and state-wide protest.

While Dr. Hart will make no statement, his friends are convinced he is the victim of political jobbery conceived during the session of the last legislature.

On the campus, many students are also of the opinion that Dr. Hart's work along social and industrial advancement is the real reason for his retirement, whatever official reasons may be offered by the board of regents.

The eleventh-hour coup delivered by Acting President Landes in recommending the dismissal of Dr. Hart and other members of the educational department is regarded by many students and alumni, as well as prominent men and women in social betterment work, as the fulfillment of a sub rosa "arrangement" between certain members of the board of regents and "leaders" of the last legislature.

Dr. Landes was in Olympia last winter in the interest of the university appropriation bills, and he was virtually put on the carpet by a number of reactionary legislators for allowing progressive doctrines, such as Dr. Hart espoused, to penetrate to university students.

Just before the recent legislature met it was rumored that two King county members had positively stated they would not vote for a university appropriation if Dr. Hart and one or two others were retained on the faculty. The "socialism" bogey was advanced as a reason why these educators should be "fired."

President Kane has been removed from the University of Washington after a two years' fight, and it was the acting president who fathered the coup which disposed of Professor Hart. When Kane was first attacked, two years ago, he was pointed to as a man persecuted for his progressiveness. After two years of fighting he is called a straddler. Did a progressive become a straddler to save his job? And was academic freedom molested?

Dr. Henry Suzzallo, of Columbia, succeeds Kane, and to set him up the Seattle Sun thus sermonizes:

No man, however well qualified he may be, can successfully administer the affairs of an institution of this character who is not given a free hand in the direction of its affairs. Whenever a board of regents begin to interfere with the inner workings of a great educational institution, it injures to the infinite harm of the institution; educational work as well as administrative work must be done by experts, not by business men, however able they may be in their own line. There is no doubt that the state university has suffered very greatly because of such interference in the past, and it is to be expected that the present splendid board will leave the working out of educational matters to the educator whom they have called to be the executive head of the institution.

Perhaps the "business administration" at Madison may be interested in the foregoing paragraph. It seems that in one state academic freedom was interfered with, and that a great university suffered.

But Dr. Suzzallo has not read his title clear. A former La Crosse resident, writing from Seattle, says of him that his appointment was received with satisfaction, but that the discovery that Dr. Suzzallo is warmly endorsed by the Rockefeller Foundation has created misgivings.

Dear friends, how like a day in Madison it all seems! Same game, same setting, same Rockefeller foundation. Dr. Suzzallo is said to be a big man, but in Columbia he was one with Dr. Butler and was tied up with the strings of the Rockefeller foundation. However, the latest word from Washington has a reassuring note. It is to the effect that Dr. Suzzallo has declared he will insist upon the reinstatement of Dr. Hart. Perhaps a man may wear the uniform as a lieutenant in Columbia and become a free agent as captain general in Seattle.

STUPID
AND MEAN

The Metropolitan Opera house in New York is said to be considering the idea of excluding German opera next season. That's rather unfair to Wagner. He hadn't anything to do with the war. He wasn't a militarist at all. His nearest approach to a submarine stunt was the swimming tank he provided for the Rhine Maidens, or possibly the Swan Boat in which Admiral Lohengrin made his last cruise. His Parsifal was a blonde hero with a tenor voice, not an airship loaded with bombs. And what shall we say of Bach, the father of the masters, and of the soul-interpreting Beethoven who knew and appealed to every human emotion? Why not decline to enjoy their charm because iron and blood rule the land that gave their transcendent genius to the world? We spank a petulant child for things less stupidly unreasonable. As a nation we are trying to be broad and generous and intelligent in this maelstrom of the peoples. Save us from the reputation that the denseness and pettiness of the Metropolitan's notion would justify. The shame of this incident ranks with the worst shame of a shameless conflict.

We can stand for a lot of things but perfume on a man isn't one of them.

Quips and Cranks
and Wanton Wiles

No Man Knows
(From The New York Sun.)
A little while the tears and laughter,
The myrtle and the rose—
A little while, and what comes after
No man knows.
An hour to sing, to love and linger
Then lutanist and lute
Shall fall on silence, song and singer
Both be mute.
Our gods from our desires we fashion,
Exalt our baffled lives,
And dream their vital bloom and passion
Still survives.
But when we've done with mirth and weeping,
With willow and with rose,
Shall Death take Life into his keeping?
No one knows.
What heart hath not, through twilight places,
Sought for its dead again.
To gild with love their pallid faces
Sought in vain? * * *
Still mounts the Dream on shining pions * * *
Still broods the dull distrust
Which shall ultimate dominion,
Dream, or dust?
A little while with grief and laughter
And then the day shall close;
The shadows gather * * * what comes after
No man knows!

Superfluously Grit
During a particularly nasty dust-storm at one of the camps a recruit ventured to seek shelter in the sacred precincts of the cook's domain.
After a time he broke an awkward silence by saying to the cook:
"If you put the lid on that camp-kettle you would not get so much of the dust in your soup."
The irate cook glared at the intruder, and then broke out:
"See here, me lad. Your business is to serve your country."
"Yes," interrupted the recruit, "but not to eat it."—Tit-Bits.

After a Good Supply
One day an old negro, clad in rags and carrying a basket on his head, ambled into the White house and placed his basket on the floor. Stepping toward President Lincoln, he said:
"Am you de president, sah?"
"I am," said Mr. Lincoln.
"If dat am a fac," I see glad to meet yer. Yer see, I lives away up dar in de back of Virginie and I see a poor man, sah. I hear dere is some pervisions in de Constitution for de culled man, sah, and I'm here to get some ob 'em, sah."—Argonaut.

Proof Positive
At the time when concrete beds for guns were being found—according, at least, to rumor—all over the allies' territory, an American in Paris went up to a policeman and said, mysteriously:
"Pst! Are you looking for German spies?"
"Mais oui!" said the policeman, taking from under his cape his notebook.

The surest, easiest way to luscious fresh fruit flavored preserves is to make your preserving syrup with one-fourth Karo (Crystal White) instead of all sugar. This formula makes a rich, heavy syrup, not too sweet, and retains the natural fruit flavor. Jams and jellies made with Karo (Crystal White) are sure to "jell," and keep free from crystallization.

MEAT CAUSE OF
KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to flush Kidneys
if Back hurts or Bladder bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.
To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.
Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

CHAPTER XII.

Exit a Lady, Laughingly.

After dinner Minot lighted a cigar and descended into the hotel gardens for a stroll. Farther and farther he strayed down the shadowy gravel paths, until only the faint far suggestion of music at his back recalled the hotel's lights and gaiety. It was a deserted land he penetrated; just one figure did he encounter in a fifteen minutes' walk—a little man clad all in white scurrying like a wraith in the black shade of the royal palms.

At a distant corner of the grounds near the tennis-courts was a summer-house in which tea was served of an afternoon. Into this Minot strolled, to finish his cigar and ponder the day's developments in the drama he was playing. As he drew a comfortable chair from moonlight into shadow he heard a little gasp at his elbow, and turning, beheld a beautiful vision.

Gabrielle Rose was made for the spotlight, and that being absent, moonlight served as well. Under its soft merciful rays she stood revealed—the beauty thousands of playgoers knew and worshiped. Dick Minot gazed at her in awe. He was surprised that she held out her hand to him, a smile of the utmost friendliness on her face.

"How fortunate," she said, as though speaking the cue for a lovely song. "I stand here, the wonder of this old Spanish night getting into my very blood—and the only thing lacking in the picture is—a man. And then, you come."

"I'm glad to be of service," said Minot, tossing away his cigar.
"What an unromantic way to put it! Really, this chance meeting—it was a chance meeting, I suppose?"
"A lucky chance," he agreed.
She pouted.
"Then you did not follow? Unromantic to the last! But as I was saying, this chance meeting is splendid. My train goes in an hour—and I wanted so very much to see you—once again."

"You flatter me."
"Ah—you don't understand." She dropped into a chair. "I wanted to see you—to put your conscience at rest. You were so sorry when you had to be—cruel—to me today. You will be as glad to know that it has all turned out happily, after all."

"What do you mean?" asked Minot, new apprehensions rising in his mind.
"Alas, if I could only tell you." She was laughing at him now—an experience he did not relish. "But my lips are sealed, as we say on the stage. I can only give you the hint. You thought you left me a broken vanquished woman. How the thought did pain you! Well, your victory was not absolute. Let that thought console you."

"You are too kind," Minot answered.
"And—you are glad I am not leaving San Marco quite beaten?"
"Oh, yes—I'm wild with pleasure."
"Really—that is sweet of you. I am so sorry we must part. The moonlight, the palms, the distant music—all so romantic. But—we shall meet again?"
"I don't know."
"Don't know? How unkind—when it all depends on you. You will look me up in New York, won't you? New York is not so romantic—but I shall try to make it up to you. I shall sing for you. Just a Little."

She stood up and held out a slim white hand.
"Good-by, Mr. Minot." Still she laughed. "It has been so good to know you."

"Er—good-by," said Minot. He took the hand. He heard her humming beneath her breath—humming just a little. "I've enjoyed your singing immensely."

She laughed outright now—a silvery joyous laugh. And, refusing the baffled Minot's offer to take her back to the hotel, she fled away from him down the dark path.

He fell back into his chair, and lighted another cigar. Exit the Gaiety lady, laughing merrily. What was the meaning of that? What new complication must he meet and solve?

For his answer, he had only to return to the hotel. On the steps he was met by Lord Harrowby's man, agitated, puffing.

"Been looking all about for you, sir," he announced. "Is Lordship wishes to see you at once—most important."

"More trouble, Minot," was Lord Harrowby's gloomy greeting. "Sit down, old chap. Just had a very nasty visitor."

"Little brown monkey of a man—Manuel Gonzale, proprietor of the San Marco Mail. I say, old boy, there is a syllable missing in the name of that paper. Do you get me?"

"You mean it should be the San Marco Blackmail? Pretty good, Harrowby, pretty good." And Minot added to himself, "for you."

"That's exactly what I do mean. Gabrielle has sold out her bunch of letters to Mr. Gonzale. And it appears from the chap's sly hints that unless I pay him ten thousand dollars before midnight, the best of these letters will be in tomorrow's Mail."

"He's got his nerve—working a game like that," said Minot.

"Nerve—not at all," replied Harrowby. "He's as safe as a child in its own nursery. He knows as well as anybody that the last thing I'd do would be to appeal to the police. Too much publicity down that road. Well?"

"His price is a bit cheaper than Gabrielle's."
"Yes, but not cheap enough. I'm broke, old boy. The governor and I are on very poor terms. Shouldn't think of appealing to him."

"We might pawn Chain Lightning's Collar," Minot suggested.
"Never! There must be some way—only three days before the wedding. We mustn't lose on the stretch, old boy."

A pause. Minot sat glumly.
"Have you no suggestion?" Harrowby asked anxiously.

"I have not," said Minot, rising. "But I perceive clearly that it now devolves on little Dicky Minot to up and don his fighting armor once more."

"Really, old boy, I'm sorry," said Harrowby. "I'm hoping things may quiet down a bit after a time."

"So am I," replied Minot with

STILL NO TRACE OF MAN WHO DROVE HORSE INTO RIVER

Mrs. Gregg's Story of the Affair Is Supplemented
Today by That of North Side Liveryman

Diligent search by the police today still had failed to locate the man who is said to have driven George R. Hodge's livery rig into Black river Monday evening, drowning the horse. The story of Mrs.
James L. Gregg, 321 South Fourth street, who rented the rig, that she had turned it over to someone else to bring home was supplemented today by that of Louis Ormson, north side liveryman, who said he drove
Mrs. Gregg home from French Island at her request.

Ormson said Mrs. Gregg was afraid to ride in the rig she had rented from Hodge, because the man
she was with, whom Ormson said
was a Milwaukee road conductor,
was abusing the horse.

Ormson said that the railroad man and another companion had passed him and Mrs. Gregg on the French Island causeway, driving at top speed, but that they had driven across the bridge to the main land.

The horse was later found in Black river at the foot of the French Island approach to the bridge.

been private assistant of the firm at the Lutheran hospital, has been in-

day. Dr. F. G. Davis, who has been with Dr. Birkelo at the hospital, and Dr. F. M. Harris, will be hospital assistants of Drs. Christianson, Gunderson and Smedal for the future.

Detachable Window Bars

Steel window guards, designed to furnish adequate protection against robbers, have recently been invented which may be attached to or detached from a casing at will. They may be fitted to a window almost in a moment's time without difficulty, or danger of marring the woodwork. The bars are so arranged that they fit into grooves along the sash. The grating cannot be removed when the window is open.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

First Exhibition of the Year to Be Given for Public
in Copeland Park
Tomorrow

NELSONS WIN CLOSEST GAME

Season's Best Indoor Ball
Comes when Doerflingers
Lose by Two to One
Score

Copeland park will see the first playground exhibition of the year tomorrow night, when the first "open night" program will be given for the general public. Games and playground activities of all kinds will be displayed by the boys and girls.

The program includes ball games between the four midget teams of the Copeland league, a game between the Nelsons and the Nameless of the Senior league; basketball games between north and south side girls, girls' singing games, wand drill by the boys and folk dancing by a group of girls.

Nelsons Beat Doerflingers

The Nelsons of the Copeland Park
Indoor league continued their winning streak last night when they defeated the Doerflingers by one run.
The final score was 2 to 1. Batteries:
Nelsons, Knutson and Lafser; Doerflingers, Jahn and Hudson.

It took an extra inning for the Caspersons to defeat the Epworth aggregation, the game being decided in the eighth inning by a score of 4 to 3 in favor of the Caspersons.

A Caspersen and Peterson worked for the winners, while Clow and Bangsberg formed the battery for the Epworths.

The Mothers' Best and the Japers played off a postponed game from Monday night, the Japers bagging
the long end of the score, garnering
11 runs. The final score was 11 to 5.
The batteries were: Mothers' Best,
Johnson and Birnbaum; Japers, Whittenberg and A. Johnson.

Runts Beat Bears

In a close game at West avenue
the home team in the Midget league defeated the visitors by a score of 8 to 7. The game looked as though it was going to be the Bears of Hood street until the last inning when the Runts rallied and brought in four scores. Batteries: Runts, Goldish and Ruff; Bears, Heileman and Wagner.

In a game which featured in the number of runs scored, the Midgets defeated the Elks at the Hood street playground, 21 to 16. Errors were numerous and proved very costly.

At the Hood street playground the fast Junior team of the south side defeated the Tigers' team of the Senior league 11 to 10. The game was won in the last part of the seventh game when J. Wolf slammed out a home. The feature of the game was the ability of the younger crowd

Leader in Colorado Strike Prosecution Says He Has Not Had Fair
Trial

DENVER, Col., July 21.—Denouncing the "one-sided enforcement" of the law in imprisoning hundreds of former strikers while those responsible for the Ludlow massacre go unpunished, A. M. Stevenson, former republican national committeeman, today asked Governor Carlson to call off the prosecution of thousands indicted men, Stevenson, who had charge of the prosecution, has always been considered a mine operators' man. His interview today was remarkable for breaking his known conservatism.

Stevenson declared John R. Lawson, the strike leader sentenced to life imprisonment for conspiracy, had not had a fair trial.

"John D. Rockefeller, Jr., does not know the real facts about the Colorado situation and these conditions would not exist if he knew them," said Stevenson. "I do not think he is in sympathy with the prosecutions. They are a grave mistake. Most people think, and I believe with reason, that many of the miners are not getting a fair trial." He specified Lawson.

FIRES DISCOVERED ABOARD U. S. SHIPS

Stricter Supervision to Follow Finding of Blaze on the Dreadnaught New York

NEW YORK, July 21.—Despite denials by navy yard officials, it was learned today on good authority that fires were discovered yesterday on the torpedo boat destroyer Harrington and the new dreadnaught New York in the navy yard here. Both blazes were quickly extinguished with practically no loss.

Extra precautions were taken at the navy yard today to guard against strangers entering. Visitors hereafter must have admission cards from the commandant's office.

More than 5,000 workmen are employed in the yards now on the superdreadnaught.

MARRY TO GIVE CHILD A NAME

DENVER, Colo., July 21.—To legitimize their child, George Quinn, condemned to hang next October for murdering her husband, was married today to Mrs. William Herbertson. Quinn was brought out from his cell in the local jail, where is awaiting transfer to the state prison. They were married by Justice Henry Bray in the warden's office.

On October 24, 1914, Quinn went to Herbertson's house with a shotgun and shot Herbertson dead before his wife's eyes. Quinn was divorced from Ruth Pattison, whose father recently ended a sensational life by killing his wife and himself on a highway near Fort Collins. Pattison had previously been acquitted on "unwritten law" for shooting Robert Showalter, a wealthy ranchman, whom Pattison found in a Denver rooming house with Mrs. Pattison.

Ring was prominent as a stalwart leader and as a railroad attorney and lobbyist during the early days of the La Follette legislative fight over railroad taxation and regulation.

SCOUT DROWNING THEORY AND THINK INGALLS RAN AWAY

Police today scouted the theory advanced yesterday that Walter Ingalls, 15, 1227 Berlin street, was in any way connected with the drowning of a horse in Black river Monday night. Young Ingalls disappeared Monday afternoon, and the police think he ran away. Their investigation has revealed no one of his description in any way connected with the horse drowning case.

Douglas Morris, son of former Lieutenant Governor Thomas Morris, told the police today that he had seen Ingalls on the excursion steamer W. W. en route to Winona on Sunday, but that he was not to be found on the boat on the return trip.

ANOTHER STRIKE THREATENS OHIO

Fearing another big walkout tomorrow when the time limit given by the miners for mine run scales to be installed expires a conference of miners and operators was being held today at Columbus to avert another strike.

The last strike, ended in May, lasted a year.

PRESIDENT ASKED TO HURRY PEACE

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Miss Jane Addams asked President Wilson today to renew at a future opportune time his efforts to end the European war by mediation. She reported in detail on her visits last spring to rulers and high officials of the belligerent countries.

STRIKERS FIGHT BRIDGEPORT POLICE

First Clash Occurs After Walkout in Factories of the Remington Company

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., July 21.—The first clash between striking ammunition workers and the police occurred near the Barnum avenue plant of the Remington Arms company at noon today.

Forty police reserves, in automobiles, rushed a crowd of 400 strikers who were marching from strike headquarters to the Barnum avenue factory. The leaped from the motor cars with raised sticks and forced the strikers to break up the procession and disperse down side streets. No one was injured.

Thirty-three more machinists, comprising the entire force of the Coulter & McKenzie factory and practically all those in the Grant Manufacturing company plant, quit work today. These two concerns are handling contracts for the Remington company.

Only 150 men struck at the Remington plant today. The total number now out is about 500. Union officials believe they can induce the 600 non-union workmen to join the strikers. The Remington officials scout this, saying that the increase in wages and the eight-hour day granted yesterday has averted any possibility of a widespread strike there.

The strikers had pickets about the Remington plant today.

Federation Heads Confer
WASHINGTON, July 21.—President Gompers and Secretary Morrison of the American Federation of Labor, held a short but important conference today with leaders of united labor interested in the Bridgeport strike situation.

At 1:15 p. m. they adjourned to meet in Bridgeport at 10 a. m. Friday. While strict secrecy was observed, it was the general belief that the conference looked toward a widespread improvement in wages and working conditions in all plants whose owners have benefitted by the European war.

Card games were indulged in, and the guests danced until late in the evening. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Ryan, Mrs. O. Simonson, Mrs. Henry Williams, Mrs. Thorwald Hamersburg, Miss Ida Griffin, and Miss Marie Stangle.

ALBERTA HAS LIQUOR VOTE

EDMONTON, Alta., July 21.—Fair weather throughout Alberta this afternoon was estimated to bring out 140,000 voters to decide on whether or not the province will go dry. It is the first plebiscite on the subject.

Work Is Harmless.

Work never hurt anyone if it was only broad enough and deep enough in its claims on human nature. Our extremely long lived men have always been hard workers. Pope Leo XIII, who died at ninety-three; Humboldt, who died at ninety-two; Gladstone and Virchow, octogenarians, are examples in our time. Is it any wonder that a physician gets impatient when people talk about the men and women of our generation doing so much that they are exhausting vitality? The trouble is they do not do enough.

BIG CROWD HEARS FORMER TEACHER IN HER RECITAL

Between 350 and 450 People Attend Mrs. Harriet Oltman Chapman's Appearance at the Normal

A crowd estimated at between 350 and 450 people attended the recital at the normal school this morning at 10 o'clock, given by Mrs. Harriet Oltman Chapman of San Diego, Cal. The auditorium of the school was crowded for the occasion by the many friends of Mrs. Chapman, who was formerly director of music at the state school here.

During her stay in La Crosse, Mrs. Chapman is being entertained by Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Thwing, 1625 Main street.

COMBINE STORIES IN FILM FEATURE

The Paramount Picture corporation provides a novel entertainment in presenting two great stories as a combination feature. The two subjects correlated in this unusual manner are "Bottles' Baby," the world-renowned story by John Strange Winter, and "The Man on the Case," by Grace Livingston Furniss, one of the greatest comedies from the pen of this noted dramatist. The two stories include every element of dramatic composition, ranging from delicious comedy to thrilling drama.

"Bottles' Baby" is the story of a deserted child, who, totally unconscious of the great good she is performing, restores to her mother the happiness that had departed from her.

"The Man on the Case," by way of delivering contrast, is a farcical story of a young millionaire who wishes to marry a girl who will love him for himself and not his money, and a sentimental romantic girl who determines to marry only for love, regardless of the financial standing of the man who wins her heart. How the millionaire and the girl meet, under strange and amusing circumstances, and fall madly in love with each other, is humorously unfolded on the screen. The combination of these two widely differing subjects form a feature of rare and diversified appeal, at the Bijou Thursday, Friday and Saturday this week.

KILL COCKROACHES!

Easy Matter to Exterminate These Filthy Pests

Even a feeble imagination can think of the germs the cockroach must bring as it crawls around the kitchen and pantry, contaminating and spoiling food. Now is the time to kill off the cockroaches and free your home from the repulsive insects. A dozen cockroaches killed now is better than killing hundreds later.

A two ounce box of Stearns Electric Paste which you can get for twenty-five cents from any druggist, will rid your home of cockroaches or water bugs. It is much better than powders, as it can not blow away and get into the food. Easy to use and an absolute exterminator. Directions in fifteen languages in every package.

OBJECT TO HAND OF GOVERNOR ON MONEY MEASURE

Proposition to Submit Appropriations to Philipp First Not Well Received

NEARING FINAL ADJOURNMENT

Not Full Week's Calendar of Bills Left in Either House Except for Appropriations

MADISON, Wis., July 21.—(Special.)—Despite small-pox, the absence of the majority of members, and an undiminished tendency toward oratory, the legislature of 1915 is in a position where it can talk fine die adjournment almost to the day. In both houses there are not enough bills to fill a full week of calendars. There then remain only the appropriation measures.

The finance committee will definitely release their report to the legislature not later than next Monday. The university, penal institutions, normal school and common school appropriations have been finished. Two more days' work on the general measures will complete that part of the work and the six months of hard work put in by the finance committee will be at an end.

Members of the legislature are on the qui vive on the appropriation question. Senator Edward Ackley has introduced a resolution which will be taken up today to have all of the finance conclusions sent to the governor before they are taken up by the legislature. The idea is called absurd by members of all parties.

"We have not sat here in Madison for six months doing everything that we can to save money for the people of the state to end up by allowing the governor have the final say," said one member of the committee.

This opinion seems to be general. The governor is working on a budget plan and real dynamite is expected in the vicinity of the senate chambers within a day or two. It is expected that the recommendations will take the form of a budget commissioner to review the legislative recommendations; a plan for which Governor Philipp has high regard.

FORMER MINISTER DISPLEASED KAISER
Member of State Department Says Holleben Was Recalled for Opposing Imperialism

WASHINGTON, July 21.—"Probably substantially correct," was Second Assistant Secretary of State A. A. Ade's verdict today on the story published in a New York newspaper to the effect that German Ambassador Holleben was recalled from Washington in 1903 because he favored William J. Bryan's anti-imperialist slogan in 1900 and was thereby to get a coaling station in the Caribbean for Germany.

Ade is one of the few present day officials who was in office at the time of the incident referred to. While practically indorsing the story, he declared it in the main a rehash of information which was tolerably well understood in political circles at the time.

Hollenbein, he explained, was not officially recalled, going home on what was technically a leave of absence, though he never returned to Washington. It was the general impression, however, he said, this leave really was a recall.

Alphonse Mumm, he added, was the German diplomatic attaché referred to as having remained for a long time in Washington as chargé d'affaires during the interval between Holleben's departure and his successor's appointment.

The average man would rather have people lie about him than tell all the truth.

U. S. ISSUES RULES FOR DEFENSE SAYS ENGLISH OFFICIAL

LONDON, July 21.—The American government has issued rules practically permitting merchant ships carrying a gun astern, purely for defensive purposes, to enter American ports, Lord Robert Cecil, under-secretary for foreign affairs declared in commons this afternoon in response to a query. This action was taken, he said, after the American government "had been approached on the subject."

Financial Secretary for the Admiralty, McNamara said that the Germans have destroyed 95 neutral ships since the beginning of the war.

Sir Charles Henry urged that the government take measures to insure the stability of Anglo-American exchange during the war. Chancellor of the Exchequer McKenna replied that he was carefully watching the exchange rates but could not make a public statement at present.

Thought Auto Was a Bed So He Pays a Fine

Edward Sanding yesterday afternoon insisted upon regarding the running-board of an automobile standing in the business district as a bed. He stretched himself out upon the narrow perch and went to sleep, drowsily protesting when the owner of the car attempted to dislodge him. The owner called the police, and Sanding went to the station, protesting all the way against being robbed of his little nap. This morning he pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness in police court and paid a fine of $5 and costs.

DALEY TRIES AGAIN TO RESTORE PEACE

Aged Man Who Left Family 13 Years Ago Starts Back to Tomah to Attempt Reconciliation

In a last effort to seek reconciliation with his wife and family of ten children whom he deserted on a farm near Tomah thirteen years ago for another woman, Jerry Daley, 70, a paralytic, today again retraced his steps towards his once happy home. Daley and a woman whom he called his wife, came to La Crosse several days ago from Alvin, Texas. Daley told the police and Sol Burdick who is caring for the woman at the poor farm in the case, while on a visit to Ireland, and that he has since lived with her, and has never communicated with his family.

The couple first went to Rochester, Minn., where the old man conferred with physicians he believed could cure his paralysis. They then came to La Crosse. They became stranded, and Daley left the woman at the poor farm while he paid a visit to home No. 1 near Tomah. His family rejected him, but today he resolved to try again, and started out when the police, who have been holding him for drunkenness, released him.

The woman will be found employment.

CONTEST ON FOR G. O. P. LEADERSHIP IN SUCKER STATE

CHICAGO, July 21.—A bitter triangular battle for the control of the Illinois delegation to the next republican national convention was forecasted here today with the flop of Mayor William Hale Thompson's sombrero into the republican presidential nomination ring. Thompson is the third Illinois republican stung by the bee. The others are Senator Lawrence V. Sherman and Congressman Mann.

The factions began lining up today in earnest not only in Cook county but in the districts "downstate" and the niftiest kind of a scrap is expected. Thompson propaganda is laying stress on the mayor's labor record resulting from the recent settlement of the street car and carpenter strikes in Chicago, the fact that he is a progressive republican with a regular record, and his youth.

STRIKE THREATENS THE BLISS PLANT

NEW YORK, July 21.—Another move to cripple the shipping of war munitions to Europe was reported this afternoon when it was announced the machinists employed by the E. W. Bliss & Company, makers of the "Whitehead torpedo" used in the United States navy, would be called out. Officials of the International Association of Machinists declared the strike at the Bliss plant is imminent. Wage increases and better working conditions are demanded.

RECEIVER SELLS WARASH

ST. LOUIS, July 21.—The reorganization committee of the Warash railroad company today brought the railroad for $1,800,000, at the receivership sale conducted by Judge Chester H. Crum, special commissioner. The receivership proceedings were brought by the Equitable Trust company of New York.

HINTGEN GUIDES COUNTY JUNKET TO VIEW ROADS

Two Autos Strike Out for Shelby This Morning to Look Over the Town's Highways

With County Highway Commissioner John Hintgen as guide, the road and bridge committee of the board of supervisors left the court house this morning for a three days' tour and inspection of LaCrosse county highways.

The party consisted of Supervisors A. N. Moore, Adolph Nuttleman, L. C. Holm, Carl Hilke, Herman Pammel and A. T. Mathewson; County Clerk Bert Jolivet, Chairman R. W. Davis, John Hintgen, and former County Clerk Charles Rawlinson.

Leaving in two automobiles, the road inspectors struck out for the town of Shelby. The towns of Greenfield and Washington will be visited today and the party will rest for the night at Bangor.

Tomorrow the party will visit the towns of Barre, Bangor, Burns and Hamilton, and will spend the night at West Salem.

Friday they will visit Farmington, Holland, Onalaska and Campbell townships, returning to La Crosse in the evening.

"It is the intention of the committee," said Supervisor Moore, "to travel every road in La Crosse county. Work which has been done in the past two years will be inspected, and the committee will endeavor to determine where repairs to roads and bridges are most needed. Recommendations will then be made to the board."

THREE ESCAPE FROM ASYLUM AT WAUPUN

WAUPUN, Wis., July 21.—After overpowering the captain of the night guard, three inmates of the state hospital for the criminal insane are at large today. They locked the captain of the guard in a cell shortly after midnight, took his keys and escaped. One of the escaped criminals is Oscar Sherry of Fond du Lac.

Posses in automobiles are scouring this section.

GARMENT WORKERS RETURN TO WORK

NEW YORK, July 21.—Twenty-one thousand men's garment workers who had been on strike for a week returned to work today.

BANDITS GET ANOTHER

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 21.—Lured to a lonely spot near Blue Mound road, Edward Maas, president of the Maas Engraving company, is the latest victim of Milwaukee's jitney bandits. Maas was returning home after attending the Jewelers' convention banquet here, when he fell in with two men. They invited him to take a ride in the country in a jitney bus and at a lonely spot pounced upon Maas, taking his diamond ring and a watch.

PRAIRIE IN WHITE
WAY INAUGURATION

Main Street of Prairie du Chien Nearly Paved and
City Plans All Day
Celebration

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis., July 21.—(Special.)—Work is well under way on the paving of Bluff street, the main business thoroughfare. The old pavement of crushed clam shells has been removed, the cement curb-ins and gutters are completed, and the foundation prepared for the new concrete pavement.

Telephone and electric light wires have been placed underground and the street will be made a White Way. The improvements extend over five blocks.

Celebrate Opening

It is proposed that Prairie du Chien celebrate the completion of the work
by inviting the residents of the surrounding country and neighboring towns to participate in a day's celebration, all the amusements and attractions to be free to all visitors.

Chautauqua Coming

The second week in August are the dates set for the chautauqua
course engaged for this season.

The first chautauqua ever held in Prairie du Chien, in June, 1914, was so popular and so well supported that the managers felt justified in securing another for this year and have booked attractions of about double the expense of those of last season.

MEXICANS AGAIN
FACE THE GALLOWS

Five Men Who Were Rerieved May 29 Have Lone Chance in Repeal

PHOENIX, Ariz., July 21.—The death watch was replaced today on five Mexicans in the Florence penitentiary. They will hang within ten days unless they are again rerieved.

Five pine coffins stand in the prison yard. Since May 29, when in a dramatic scene they stood in the shadow of the gallows and were prived at the last moment, five open graves have awaited them in the prison cemetery.

The only chance they have of escaping the murder penalty is in an appeal to the federal court at San Francisco. Federal Judge Sawtelle of Arizona, who once refused to interfere, is in California. The state supreme court is on a vacation. Governor Hunt who made a fight against capital punishment and the repeal of his pardoning power, is apparently helpless to save the men. The pardon board said there would be no further delay in putting the five to death. A referendum petition to abolish capital punishment was circulating today but the signatures were few.

FALK GIRLS BETTER.

them as they were returning from a candy store, is reported slightly improved. The girls had a fairly good night last night.

LINER AFIRE IN INDIAN OCEAN OFF
AFRICAN SHORE

LONDON, July 21.—The Peninsular and Oriental liner Benalla, bound from London to Australia,
with about 750 passengers, is afire
in the Indian ocean 800 miles east of the South African coast, according to dispatches to shipping circles from Pietermaritzburg today.
The Benalla wireless for assistance, saying a fire was raging in one of her holds.

The Benalla is a 11,118 ton steel twin screw steamer registered at the port of Greenock. She was built in 1913 for the Peninsular & Oriental Steam Navigation company and plied between British and Australian and far east ports. She is 500 feet in length and modernly equipped throughout.

BATAVIANS WIN

Batavian indoor baseballers were triumphant last night when they defeated the Nationals on the fire station lot by the score of 12 to 11. The game was a battle-royal from start to finish. Huebner and Lapitz composed the winning battery. Bone-ville and Anderson worked for the Nationals. The same teams will play
Friday night.

Taking Care of Sewing Machine.

After every two days of steady work oil the machine thoroughly, but be careful to wipe away all the superfluous oil. Run the machine rapidly, but steadily, without any thread, for five minutes after oiling. This will cause the oil to scatter, and the superfluous drops can be wiped away and none left to stain the material on which you are working.

RUSHFORD CHOOSES

School Year Are Rush-
ford Young Ladies;
Others Recommended

RUSHFORD, Minn., July 21.—
(Special.)—Instructors for the public schools during the ensuing year have been engaged and are as follows:

Superintendent, Prof. P. A. Reinertson; principal, Miss Elsie Young-man; English, Miss Alice Ringheim;
German and Latin, Miss Chrissie
McLeod; eighth grade, Miss Alvie Melgord; seventh grade, Miss Hattie partment, Mr. Frank Sandhammer.

Six of the instructors are young ladies of Rushford, all very successful in their various lines of work and those from a distance being also highly recommended.

Next week Rushford's first chautauqua will be in full blast; from the 26th to 31st inclusive. Decorations are already in evidence for the gala week and Rushford is planning to get all work in shape so that next week it can enjoy the assembly.

Public Helps Library

Thanks to the activity of numerous interested young ladies, the public library is richer in funds by about $235. A house to house canvass was made by the young folks and all contributed well to the cause. It has been deemed expedient to postpone the home talent play which was being planned, to some date in the future, since the present month and that following will be too full of other work to admit of its being given.

Personals

The Misses Mary and Helen Culhane have been recent guests of their aunt, Miss Bridget Culhane, of Mapleton.

Miss Lily Berg, who has been enjoying a two weeks' vacation from her duties at Smith's store, has returned to work. She was the guest of her relatives and friends at Bingham Lake, Mapleton and other points

while absent from the city.

Miss Lillian Sundby is acting as clerk at D. J. Shirven's store for the remainder of the summer.

The tolling of the Lutheran church
bell last Monday morning notified Rushford of the passing away of Miss Kittleson, who had been ill for some time, at her home a few miles from this city.

Mrs. Gunder Anderson of Ferry street, who has been for some days
the guest of her son, Edward Anderson of Choice, was taken very ill suddenly last Monday and a telephone message was sent to her son Theodore and daughter Jennie of this city. They immediately started by auto for her bedside, taking with them a physician from this city. Mrs.
Anderson is reported as some better,
but will be unable to get home for some time. Miss Jennie will remain with her for a time.

The high stage of water in Root river and Rush creek routed a number of campers out of their tents this week, being on the low ground farther down the valley. No damage was done save to give them extra trouble and in some cases a bit of unwanted moisture in the camping outfit.

All the genius that I have lies just in this: When I have a subject in hand, I study it profoundly. Day and night it is before me. I explore it in all its bearings. My mind becomes permeated with it. Then the effort which I make is what people are pleased to call the fruit of genius. It is the fruit of labor and thought.—

Somebody Is Always Taking the Joy Out of Life

How to Fight Tuberculosis

Dr. J. W. Carhart of San Antonio, Texas, says: "Since lime salts constitute three-fourths of all the mineral substances of the human body, they must be supplied in the foods or supplemented in mineral preparations, or natural starvation ensues, with tuberculosis unchecked. The spread of tuberculosis and other preventable diseases is due largely to decalcified (lime lacking) conditions of multitudes throughout the civilized world."

Since lime is one of the ingredients of Eckman's Alternative, much of its success doubtless is due to its combination in such a way as to render it easily assimilable.

Eckman's Alternative has effected remarkable results in tuberculosis, which, in many instances, apparently has yielded to it, and since it contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, it is safe to try.

COTTON SHIPPERS ANXIOUSLY AWAIT NOTE TO ENGLAND

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Cotton shippers were anxiously awaiting today the government's note to Great Britain concerning trade between the United States and neutral countries, especially with reference to British prize court proceedings.

The caveat, or warning, filed with the London foreign office was satisfactory, as far as it went, it was held by the cotton men. They pointed out that, while it refused to recognize any British policies not in accord with international law, it was not calculated actually to improve the present situation. What they wanted was a demand that England keep hands off neutral shipping.

CAFETERIA STORE HIT IN PASADENA

PASADENA, Cal., July 21.—"Pick out your own shoes, try them on, and pay at the gate as you pass out."

This is the system in vogue at Pasadena's cafeteria shoe store, which will open for business today. People at first seemed rather timid about venturing inside. They stepped haltingly, and grinned bashfully. But this diffidence soon wore off. J. H. Parry, manager of the store, believes his system will be all the rage when people get used to it.

Each pair carries its price tag. Dapper footwalkers hover around, ready to assist. Signs tell what to do. One said: "Should you want to wear the new shoes some, take them off, show them at the gate, pay for them, and put them on again in the ante-room."

"If you don't want to buy, slip out a side way."

MADISON, Wis., July 21.—(Special.)—The new state map prepared by the railroad commission under authority of law has just been issued and 100 copies have been sent to each member of the legislature at his home address for distribution among his constituents. World's Smallest Timepiece.

If Big Ben is the largest timepiece in the world, which is the smallest? Surely the watch made in Berlin a few years ago. It measured less than a quarter of an inch in diameter and weighed less than two grains troy—and 5,760 grains, you remember, go to the pound. The hands, if put end to end, would measure five twenty-fourths of an inch in length. Two thousand dollars was the price asked and paid.

Children Have Pet Jackdaw.

At Llangyllin (Wales) workhouse there is a pet jackdaw. It accompanies the children from the workhouse to and from school regularly, perching on a tree within sight of the door while they are at lessons, and immediately they are out again flies over them on the return journey. On Sundays he accompanies the children to Sunday school in quite another direction.

TEDDY TALKS ON WAR AT 'FRISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 21.—Former President Theodore Roosevelt had today all to himself at the Panama-Pacific exposition. The day was named in his honor and at 3 o'clock this afternoon he was to speak on "War and Peace" in the court of the universe.

Attracted by his statement that "Damn the mollycoddlers" might well be the title of this address, a crowd of upwards of 15,000 was expected to hear the colonel attack the "Peace at any price" party. The ex-president visited the Enlisted Men's club at one o'clock and spoke there briefly.

Remarkable Double Tree.

There is said to be in Kentucky a tree bearing each year a crop of walnuts and a crop of mulberries; and the curious phenomenon is accounted for by the supposition that a mulberry seed fell where a walnut lay in the ground, and the young shoots came up side by side and united their forces into one solid trunk. This supposition seems feasible from the fact that the bark of the tree is on one side that of walnut and on the other that of the mulberry.

GOOD CORN WEATHER PROMISED FOR WEEK

Weather Bureau Says Corn and Tobacco Will Be Treated Well for a Spell

Farmers, who have for the last two months been casting dissatisfied glances at their corn and tobacco crops, may rest for another week assured that the weather man will look after their interests for at least seven days. The weekly forecast issued by the United States weather bureau at Washington promises warmer weather for the week beginning today, with probably thunder showers widely scattered.

Crops as a whole flourished during the week ending Monday, according to the weekly survey of the department. The spell of warm weather did wonders for corn and tobacco and compensated in part for the unfavorable weather heretofore.

The report follows:

"The week as a whole was very favorable to all crops, the most favorable of the season so far. It began with temperatures generally above normal Tuesday and continued warm until Saturday when there was a change to cooler weather. There was abundant sunshine and occasional showers gave sufficient moisture for growing crops over the greater part of the state. As usual with summer showers and thunderstorms, the rainfall was quite unevenly distributed, the greatest total for the week being 4.38 inches at Prentice in Price county, while several stations reported little or no precipitation.

"It was the first good corn weather of the season and the crop improved rapidly, but it is still very backward. Tobacco is a little late but it developed well during the week. Small grains are ripening; they are generally well headed and look promising. Hay cutting progressed well, though in some localities frequent showers interfered with the work. Garden truck is plentiful and of a very good quality. Pastures are in good condition.

Weekly Weather Forecast

Issued by the U. S. weather bureau at Washington, D. C., for the week beginning Wednesday, July 21, 1918:

For the upper Mississippi valley and plains states: Moderate temperatures and generally fair the first half of the week, the latter half will be warmer and generally fair except that widely scattered thunder-showers are probable.

clear weather and uninterrupted harvesting in the western wheat fields brought on a rush of selling orders that held steadily throughout the day and depressed prices, showing overnight losses of 1½, 1 and 1. Later July was off ¼¢, September ¼¢ and December ¼¢ from the opening.

Corn was weak at the start, but later reports of cool weather inspired purchases that strengthened prices fractionally over the opening.

Oats opened lower with the other grains, but except a drop of ¼¢ in July, made fractional recoveries on steady buying by commission houses.

EXPECT SQUALL AT STATE LABOR MEET THIS WEEK

Secretary's Report Urges
Labor to Stand Together
at the Polls and to Eliminate Middlemen

INJUNCTION'S USE OPPOSED
Use in Labor Disputes Is Characterized as Sham and Mockery of the Law

SUPERIOR, Wis., July 21.—What promises to be the hottest session in the history of Wisconsin's organized labor was opened here today when the annual convention of the State Federation of Labor was called to order by O. F. Oiche, chairman of the convention committee. The attendance this year is far greater than that at Oshkosh last year.

Little Organizing
The state federation has done
practically no organization work during the past year on account of the financial and industrial depression, according to the report of Secretary J. J. Handley of the federation. Handley urged greater co-operation of labor at the polls, more effort toward the elimination of the middleman to reduce the high cost of living and more effort toward state-wide labor legislation.

The committee appointed a year ago to make a report on farm credits submitted a report today strongly urging the members of labor organizations to work for a system of government land banks. It is one of the most important steps toward greater production and lower living costs. In this connection, the committee also recommends that a movement be started for co-operative workmen's banks in cities for the purpose of home building and easy industrial credits.

Oppose Injunctions
If the recommendations of the legislative committee are acted upon, Wisconsin will see a wide-spread agitation during the coming year against the use of injunctions in labor disputes. The committee characterizes the injunction as a sham and mockery on the sanctity of the law. The report shows that during the past session of the legislature,
a dozen or more bills were introduced looking toward shorter hours
of labor and better working conditions.
Practically all of them were indefinitely postponed or killed in committee.

Rumors of impending trouble over the resolutions to be adopted before the close of the session were in the air here today. It was stated in several quarters that an effort would be made to have a resolution passed condemning the attitude of the United States toward the shipment of arms to the allies. If the element behind this resolution makes an insistent fight, it is believed that trouble will undoubtedly ensue.

Parade Tomorrow
A business session will be held tomorrow morning and the feature of the convention will be a parade tomorrow night followed by a mass meeting in Tower Hall. Addresses will be delivered at this meeting by representatives from the Illinois,

Iowa, and Minnesota federations.
The convention will close Friday with a banquet.

partment will be organized along the same lines as the English war munitions ministry under Lloyd George.

Extent of His Unpopularity.
"I am so cordially detested in this community on account of my plain speaking," confessed Grout P. Smith,
"that I shrewdly suspect that if I sought to obtain some deadly drug with which to commit suicide the druggist would substitute some harmless imitation, simply for the pleasure of fooling me."—Kansas City Star.

WHEN YOU WASH YOUR HAIR DON'T USE SOAP

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp
and makes the hair brittle.
The best thing to use is just plain multifid coconut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.
Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

YOUTH GETS TRYOUT

MOUNT VERNON, Ill., July 21.—
Frank Ellerman, a bespectacled youth, who struck out nineteen men while pitching for Mount Vernon in the Egyptian league, today was ordered to report to the St. Louis Federals for a tryout.

Acute Articular Rheumatism

The exact cause of rheumatism is unknown, though it is generally believed to be due to an excess of uric acid in the blood.
It may be also said with equal truth that no remedy has been found which is a specific in all cases. In fact the literature of rheumatism shows that there are but few drugs which have not been given a trial. In the hands of one observer we find that a certain drug has been used with the utmost satisfaction; others have found the same remedy to be a great disappointment. All physicians however agree that every method of treatment is aided by the administration of some remedy to relieve the pain and quiet
the nervous system and Dr. W. S. Schultz expresses the opinion of thousands of practitioners when he says that Anti-Kamnia Tablets should be given preference over all other remedies for the relief of the pain in all forms of rheumatism. These tablets can be purchased in any quantity. They are also unsurpassed in headaches, neuralgias
and all pain. Ask for A-K Tablets.

HOPES OF ALLIES AT THE STRAITS ARE DAMPENED

VIENNA, via Berlin Wireless, July 21.—Unless the Dardanelles are forced during the present month, the allied troops will never make their way to Constantinople, according to statements attributed to the Bulgarian diplomat M. Rizov, printed in the Neue Journal today.

"By the early part of August, Turkey will be fully equipped with war munitions and her position will be impregnable," said Rizov.
The Bulgarian diplomat, said to be slated to become the new minister to Berlin, said that talk of a new Balkan federation was nonsense, because a union between Serbia and Bulgaria was impossible. He said there was little probability that Bulgaria would make war on Turkey, but that on the contrary she would seek by peaceful means to settle the boundary and railroad questions.

Premonition.

"Aren't you ever depressed by some vague sense of oppression, the dim shadow of some coming disaster?"
"Yes, I feel that way every summer before my wife comes back from the shore."—Life.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT IS MADE TO STAY BECKER EXECUTION

NEW YORK, July 21.—Charles Becker's own revision of the murder of Gambler Rosenthal, for which the former police lieutenant is sentenced to die a week from today, was given to Governor Whitman at Albany today by the doomed man's counsel in an eleventh hour attempt to gain executive clemency.

The story, which covers over sixty typewritten pages, is a vindication of Becker. In it he denies his relations with the gambling fraternity were ever anything more than those of a police officer and his stool pigeons,
and he implicates "Big Tim" Sullivan, former democratic leader, who was found dead some time ago, apparently killed by a railroad train under slightly mysterious circumstances.

Beginning of Vast Commerce.

Intercourse between Russia and England began in the middle of the sixteenth century by the White sea.
It was a hazardous and costly voyage. The crews of two of the three ships with which Richard Chancellor made his first trip in 1553 were frozen to death. Sir Hugh Willoughby among them.
